Their Cases Reversed.

This afternoon B. D. Starr, Cherokee Indian, sent up from here for life on a charge of murder about two years ago, together with Dave and John Langford, sent up about the same time from here for larceny for five years, were returned to Ardmore from the penitentiary, their cases having been reversed by the supreme court.

Specialties for the Ardmoreite.

Woodmen's Circle Entertain.

The Woodmen Circle in a manner very creditable to that order, entertained visiting officers Friday night. The visitors were Mrs. Emma B. Manchester, supreme, and Mrs. M. C. Stalowa, supreme deputy of the two territories, whose home is in Fort Worth.

The welcome address was made by F. J. E. Young and after addresses made by the visitors the Circle members and their guests repaired to the banquet hall where they did full justice to an elegant spread. S. S. Cole took a flash light picture of the banquet.

As a memento from the local Circle the supreme guardian was presented with a beautiful piece of burnt leather work.

The officers expressed themselves as delighted with the Ardmore grove. It has a membership of 52, and has made substantial gains each month since its organization.

Mrs. Manchester made a financial statement of the Woodmen Circle that was gratifying to the members and made many friends for the Circle. The visitors departed Saturday morning for Denham.

Have you heard the "Angels" play the piano. It is always ready to play at Luke's music store.

Hidden Fortune Found.

Westchester, N. Y., Feb. 20.—A fortune in high class railroad bonds was found by the granddaughter and heirless of Thomas Wilson here yesterday after a search of twelve years. When Wilson died no trace of his wealth could be found, although he was known to have a large fortune. Mrs. Lizzie Pell, his granddaughter, instituted immediate search, but without success, until a safe deposit box was found in his name in a Long Island bank. It contained $26,500 in bonds of high grade and papers showing the investment of other sums amounting to $200,000.

Bishop Brooke arrived in the city yesterday and will conduct services at the Episcopal church today.

FOR WINTER WEAR.
